- This workshop presents a broad overview of many areas of gastrointestinal pathology and is presented by national and international faculty with expertise in the field of gastrointestinal pathology.
- The workshop is designed to update academic, practicing pathologists and those in the community with new advances in gastrointestinal pathology, and to provide aids in diagnosis based on conventional morphologic analysis, as well as updates on new techniques, such as immunohistochemistry and molecular pathology.
- The program features up to date and state of art talks and slide seminars with discussion of diagnostic challenges.
- Each registrant will receive comprehensive course materials.

Objectives

- This workshop is designed to update pathologists and physicians on advances in the understanding of gastrointestinal diseases.
- It also addresses problems faced during the pathologic evaluation of tissue samples, and provide pathologists with a framework for interpretation of both histologic patterns of disease and results of molecular analyses.
- The program will consist of lectures, case presentations and discussions designed to provide attendees with an in-depth discussion of diagnostic problems that arise when evaluating materials obtained from the gastrointestinal tract and inform them regarding the application of molecular studies in the diagnosis and classification of these diseases.
- A compilation of presentations, lecture notes, and reference citations will be available online.

Target Audience

- Practicing & Academic Pathologists
- Practicing & Academic Gastroenterologists
- Pathology Residents
- Gastroenterology Residents
- General Practitioners
- Interested Medical Students
