The International Medical University (IMU), Division of Chiropractic is pleased to announce a Continuing Professional Development (CPD).

This workshop will provide its delegates with an objective hands on experience of the various tapes and techniques available.

These full day practical workshops are designed to provide up to date information and instruction to maximize the participant's ability to apply and use current taping methods as a treatment modality. This trilogy of workshops is best taken in succession and designed to cater to a busy working professional's lifestyle and will build on each other.

- Athletic and elastic taping.
- Certificates of attendance will be provided.
- Participants will be able to use these taping techniques in clinical practice and on the field management of sport's injuries.
- All taping consumables will be provided.
- Lunch is included.
- Space is limited to ensure adequate contact time.

The aims of applying athletic and elastic tape are to:

- Support muscle movement
- Promote lymphatic drainage
- Improve kinesthetic awareness
- Decompresses an area of swelling
- Promote blood flow
- Assist in muscle recovery
- Help with pain management
- Delays muscle fatigue
- To understand when to use which taping strategy

OBJECTIVES

- To determine when taping is appropriate for patients/clients
- To use taping as a profitable adjunctive manual technique
- To learn how to market your newly acquired clinical skill set
- To learn how to effectively apply taping methods
- Explore the applications of taping for athletic injuries

TARGET AUDIENCE

Participants will include chiropractors, physical therapists, athletic trainers, TCM providers, as well as other healthcare professionals and complementary therapists.

Students, recent graduates and practicing professionals with an interest in rehabilitation of sports injuries using taping strategies would tremendously benefit from this trilogy of workshops.
