The grief and bereavement workshop aims to provide a supportive community for individuals who are navigating the complexities of loss, offering validation, understanding, and practical tools to help them on their journey toward healing and resilience.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

1. Practice patient centred communication within end-of-life care management with a focus on the unique challenges faced by healthcare professionals.
2. Enhance non-verbal communication skills for delivering compassionate and empathetic care to patients and families experiencing loss, including active listening, empathy, and effective dialogue.
3. Recognise factors affecting the communication and behaviours of healthcare providers and patients during grief and bereavement.
4. Demonstrate building patient rapport through the experience of immersive technology in a safe and controlled environment for grief and bereavement.
