

WORKSHOP ON QUALITATIVE RESEARCH FOR HEALTH PROFESSIONS EDUCATION

DATE

08 January 2020, Wednesday

TIME

8:30am — 2.00pm

VENUE

ICE Training Centre, Level 2,
International Medical University,
Bukit Jalil, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Professor Ming-Jung Ho

Professor Ming-Jung Ho is a Professor in the Department of Family Medicine, Georgetown University School of Medicine, and the Associate Director for the Center for Innovation and Leadership in Education (CENTILE), Georgetown University Medical Center (GUMC). She is also the Director of GUMC Teaching Academy in the Health Sciences and Director of Educational Research, MedStar Health. Her research interest lies in the application of anthropology to medical education. Her research projects on the theme of cross-cultural professionalism have garnered awards from the Association for Medical Education in Europe, the Taiwan Association of Medical Education, and the National Science Council of Taiwan.

Qualitative research has become increasingly prominent in health professions education in recent years. Qualitative approaches are used to study social and human phenomena in their natural settings through exploration of individuals' underlying reasons, opinions and motivations. In this workshop, we will consider the nature of qualitative research questions, discuss common methodologies, describe data collection and analysis methods, and define the principles of rigour. The aim is to provide both an introduction to participants who are new to this research paradigm and the workshop will also be a resource for more experienced participants.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- ◆ Develop qualitative research proposal for health professions education.
- ◆ The aim is to provide both an introduction to participants who are new to this research paradigm and a resource for more experienced participants.

REGISTRATION FEE

Regular
RM350

Payment details will be provided upon registration.

Kindly register via this link or scan the QR code:

<https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/X6PT6PN>

PROGRAMME OF WORKSHOP

Time	Title
8:30am -8:50am	Registration
8:50am –9.00am	Introduction
9:00am-10:00am	Plenary on qualitative research for HPE
10:00am-10:20am	Tea Break
10:20am-11:50am	Hands-on activity: Develop qualitative research proposal in health professions education
11:50am-1.00pm	Presentation
1.00pm –2.00pm	Lunch